

Patent ductus arteriosus (PDA) is a small blood vessel that connects Aorta and Pulmonary artery. It is NORMAL in fetus. In term babies it closes within 24-72 hour after birth. However in premature infants, it might persist for some time. Mostly PDA is managed conservatively, however some might require medications and in certain situation surgery might be indicate.